BACKGROUND DATA

Site & Area Description

The subject site is located on a tract of land that fronts South Orcas Street to the north, Corson Avenue South to the east, and South Michigan Street to the south, in the Georgetown neighborhood of South Seattle. The eastern extent of South Fidalgo Street dead ends along the west property boundary line. The site is also located within the Duwamish Manufacturing/Industrial Center District. The existing parcel size is approximately 347,727 square feet located in a General Industrial Two zone with a height limit of 85 feet (IG-2 U/85) and Industrial Buffer zone with a height limit of 65 feet. The site is classified as a split zone lot. The site is irregular in shape, with a lengthwise orientation along a northerly and southerly axis. The site is fully developed with two large commercial structures, accessory surface parking, and landscaping. The site is essentially level with perimeter landscaping to visually obscure on-site commercial activities. The largest structure contains a number of uses that include restaurants, retail sales and service, and office uses. The other building supports warehouses, storage, and office uses. Except for South Fidalgo Street, the street rights-of-way are fully developed with curbs, sidewalks and gutters fronting the development site.

Access to the development site is primarily taken along Corson Avenue South abutting the property to the east, and South Michigan Street abutting along the south property line. Corson Avenue South and South Michigan Street are arterials with direct connection to Interstate Five (I-5). The street systems are bustling with activity in and around the subject lot. The site is located within a moderate sized industrial zone to the west, south, and east. Businesses located within this area are typical of uses established within industrial zones, including warehouses, business support services, and manufacturing uses. A lodging use (Georgetown Inn) is located directly across the street at the intersection of South Michigan Street and Corson Avenue South. To the northwest abutting the subject lot is a modest sized Multifamily Lowrise Two (L-2) zone, with a minimum density limit of one unit per 1,200 square feet of lot area. Seattle Parks Georgetown Playground is located further north within walking distance.

Proposal

The proposal is to subdivide one parcel of land into two (2) parcels. Proposed parcel areas are indicated in the summary above. Proposed parcels will have direct and indirect access to South Michigan Street, Corson Avenue South, and South Orcas Street.
